Achieve the Best Results with The Latest Technology
by Stephen T. Greenberg, M.D., F.A.C.S.

Now more than ever, we can count on the latest, most innovative technology to help achieve the best possible cosmetic surgery results. We are each confronted by the media with hundreds of alternatives to helping improve our appearance, regain our youth, and tone up our bodies. The reality is that the true secret to maintaining a youthful look is paying attention to the basics – get adequate sleep, drink plenty of water, watch your diet and find the time to exercise. What many of us find, however, is that even with our best personal efforts the quest for beauty may need a little help. Now, more than ever, we can help you obtain the look that you are striving for by using the best available advancements in technology to assist you in attaining your goals.

One of the greatest advancements today is the amazing Cellfina®, an incredible new technology recently introduced into my office and sure to deliver excellent results to anyone looking to enhance their appearance. With Cellfina®, patients can actually reduce cellulite and reveal a smoother appearance without surgery. Cellfina® is performed under a local anesthetic, and the treatment reduces cellulite by releasing the constrictive bands that cause the skin to dimple and create the “cottage cheese,” effect. We can treat multiple areas during a single procedure, and Cellfina® offers lasting results. The procedure is performed on an outpatient basis in my fully accredited surgical center, and most patients experience minimal or even no down time.

Cellfina® is effective as a standalone treatment, but can also be combined with additional body contouring procedures such as Liposuction. Whereas Liposuction is effective in eliminating the excess fat, Cellfina® then creates the overall smoothing that many patients desire. Using a combination of the most advanced technology including; SmartLipo and Cellfina®, patients can realize optimal results. These procedures can be used together or separately to enhance your new look. Now is the perfect time to have these procedures and look your best! Interested patients are encouraged to contact my office today to schedule a complimentary consultation at 516.364.4200.
